Association Has Annual Meet Friday

The 14th Annual Membership Meeting of the Calloway County Soil Improvement Association was held in the Little Auditorium at Murray State College on Friday.

Over 450 persons attended the meeting. Following the business session and election of three directors door prizes were drawn by Wayne Posey, district manager of Southern States Cooperative.

Entertainment was furnished by the schools of the county. All of them presented a program with the exception of Coldwater, Dexter, and Independence.

First prize was drawn by Lynn Grove, who presented a quartet and a novelty duet.

Second prizes were won by Murray Training School with a tap dancing number being presented.

Third prize was taken by Faxon, presenting a chorus, two skits and a solo.

Hazel had a beginners band; Concord a boys quartet; Murray High, an Easter Hat Pantomime; Almo, guitar playing and solo; and Kirksey, piano solo.

Dr. A. H. Kopperud explained the rain insurance program to the large assembly.

Judges for the musical numbers were Harry Hargrave, Carol Hilton and Earl Byrnes.

The Calloway County Soil Improvement Association is directed by B. W. Edmonds, chairman, H. G. Gingles, A. W. Morris, William E. Hendon, J. C. Kemp, Clyde Phelps, Elmer R. Paschall, Goebel Roberts, E. L. Kuykendall.

Employees of the association are W. R. Perry, manager, Guy Wilson, assistant manager, Glencoe Edmonds, records, Crawford McClure, Ollis Anderson, Roscoe Feglin, Clarence Compton, Rudy H. Budy, and Cassel Garrison.

Sinking Spring To Begin Revival

Sinking Spring Church is joining with more than 25,000 other Southern Baptist Churches in a Simultaneous revival effort. The local church will have services each evening at 7:30 from April 10 through April 17.

The visiting evangelist is to be Rev. Harold Ware of Louisville, Kentucky. Bro. Ware is pastor of the Victory Baptist Temple of Louisville. He has had a broad experience in mission work and is in great demand as an evangelist.

Music for these services will be under the direction of Mr. James Key and Mrs. Bill Collins. You are invited to join with the people of Sinking Spring Church in all of these services.

MATT SPARKMAN AT DEANS ASSOCIATION

Matt Sparkman left Saturday for Chicago, where he will attend the National Association of Deans. The meeting will take place in the Conrad Hilton Hotel and will be held from April 3-7.

NOTE: The Murray Junior Chamber of Commerce will have their regular meeting at 7 o'clock tomorrow at the City Hall. All members are urged to attend.

Get Married To Live Long, Science

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — The social scientists tell you that if you want to live a long time you must get married and stay married.

There's no question about it: Married people live longer than single people; and people who were once married live longer than people who were never married.

The public health service's national office of vital statistics has proven this to be a fact. But the social scientists tell you that it wasn't in need of any proof; that it should be as evident as the nose on your face.

The big reason why this is so is that there are no pent-up people among married people — assuming that is, that they "communicate" with one another, and if they don't, they don't stay married.

Tell Each Other Off
Perhaps a husband and his wife have learned disrespect for one another. This makes them prone to tell one another off — each is happy to explain why the other's faults are extremely irritating.

So each has a sounding board. Neither is pent up, both get their troubles off their chests. But if they're happily married, each has a weeping wall and a confessional of excellent attention from their mates. The wife who thinks her husband is a jerk and tells him so, feeds and cares for him with zeal because she wouldn't want to lose him. The husband who tells his wife she's shrew and a nag, also calls the doctor for her at the slightest excuse because, feeling as he does, his conscience tells him that he has to give constant proof that he doesn't wish her ill.

Better For Men
All this scientific "evaluation" came to this reporter from social scientists who thought "statistics" were just catching up with them. However, the statistics of the national office of vital statistics indicated that not being pent-up worked better for men than for women.

Basing his figures on the 1950 census and mortality rates for 1949, 1950, and 1951, statistician Dewey Shortleiff showed that deaths among bachelors were almost two-thirds greater than among husbands.

Among divorced men and widowers, the rate was half again more.

But spinster mortality was a fourth again higher than that of wives; the mortality of widows and divorcees was half again higher. Shortleiff suggested no reason for this difference between the sexes.

Several Die As Train Car Plunges Into Canyon

CALIMA, Mexico (UP) — Three cars of a speeding passenger train plunged into a mountain canyon Sunday night and the governor of Colima Province reported today that nine persons were killed and 78 injured, eight of them seriously.

Gov. Jesus Gonzales Lugo, in charge of rescue operations, reached the scene in a rescue train which brought back the dead and injured to this mountain town 20 miles north of the wreck scene.

He said one car plunged to the bottom of a 210-foot deep canyon and that two others tumbled half way down. Most of the victims were in the first car.

Gonzales Lugo said he believed all of the dead and injured were removed from the wreckage but that he left a rescue brigade behind to make a thorough search at daylight.

The train was reported jammed with hundreds of Easter vacationers bound from Guadalajara to the Pacific coastal resort town of Manzanillo.

The death toll was feared at first to have been much higher.

Relatives of those aboard rushed to Guadalajara airport to try to fly to Colima or packed the railway station trying to reach the scene by rail. First reports reaching Guadalajara said "300 were dead."

The government dispatched three rescue trains loaded with soldiers and medical teams. Gonzales Lugo boarded the first of these to reach the scene.

He would make no prediction as to the cause of the wreck.

City Schools Get Vacation

The 1200 students and fifty teachers in the Murray City School system will receive a one week spring vacation from April 11 to April 16, according to a release today by W. C. Carter.

The announcement was made, he said by the Board of Education at its last regular meeting.

This is the second year Murray High, Murray Elementary and Douglass High have had an Easter Vacation. The one week vacation was so popular with parents, students and faculty, he said, that it is being continued this Spring.

Prior to 1954 two or three days were taken to permit teachers to attend the Kentucky Education Association each year.

April 8 is the last day of the fifth six week term, and one term of six weeks remains after the schools reconvene on April 18.

Dan Fain At General Motors School

Dan K. Fain is attending the General Motors Training Center at Memphis, Tennessee to learn advanced automotive service techniques which he will use in his work at J. T. Hale Motor Sales.

Mr. Fain, of Lynn Grove, Kentucky, is spending two days at the Memphis school, one of a nationwide network of training centers being set up by General Motors to keep employees of its car and truck dealerships abreast of new mechanical development and service techniques.

A mechanic with J. T. Hale Motor Sales for seven years selected the Oldsmobile Air Conditioning course.

A. C. Sanders head of the company, said he sent Mr. Fain to the Memphis center to give his customers the benefit of improved service techniques taught there.

J. T. Hale Motor Sales handles Oldsmobile and Cadillac cars.

The Memphis training center, with more than 25,000 square feet of floor space, has eight specialized shop classrooms, for use by the Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick, Cadillac, GMC Truck & Coach, Fisher Body and United Motors Service divisions of GM.

Each division supplies a highly trained instructor for its course at the center, which is managed by W. A. Smith, Jr.

GM officials expect a total of 5,000 mechanics to attend the center each year. Similar attendance is expected at other training centers where they are completed.

Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors, explained that the purpose of the centers is "to insure that the people who buy our cars and trucks will continue to receive efficient and satisfying service." He said that "the centers will make it possible for dealer service personnel to keep up to date on a systematic basis with improved service methods and technological advances such as air conditioning, power steering, power brakes and other major improvements."

SEARCH FOR SLAYER
DETROIT (UP) — Police searched today for a "cowboy" seen with a young girl in his car the day seven year old Barbara Gaca was slain by a sex fiend.

Chief of Detectives Marvin G. Lane said one of the best suspects was a cowboy who a woman says saw with a young girl in his car the day Barbara disappeared. But he said the suspect's trail was cold.

The Orlando development came on the heels of a cable-cutting in the Atlanta area that disrupted service to 30,000 telephones and the closing of the Maryville, Tenn. exchange because of picket line violence.

The sheriff said cutting the six abba which knocked out about 200 telephones was the first trouble here since the strike started three weeks ago today.

Carpenter is married and the father of three children. He faces a possible maximum penalty if convicted of a $500 fine or six months in jail on each of three counts.

Repercussions Brewing
It will be thunderclap news in Britain if Churchill does not resign Tuesday. The expectation was so universal that his failure to do so would explode volcanic political repercussions.

Conservatives and Laborites alike already have started up their party campaign machinery to prepare for a quick election. Eden himself recently cancelled a May 31 engagement with the latest of excuses, putting the political pointer on May 26 as a possible general election date.

Good news from local elections put roses along Churchill's path from power.

His Conservative Party registered its second set of sweeping local election gains in a week, promoting a pleasant political climate and providing a good election omen to hand to his successor.

Cancer Drive Will Be Held This Month

The annual Cancer drive is underway in the nation with the emphasis on the drive in Calloway County being placed on the last two weeks of the month.

Mrs. A. C. Sanders, chairman of the drive for Calloway County, has urged all clubs and organizations which normally make a contribution to the Cancer Fund to set aside their contribution.

The annual drive is sponsored by the Delta Department of the Murray Women's Club.

During 1953, two out of every 15 deaths that occurred in Kentucky were caused by cancer. The 3,631 Kentuckians who died from cancer ranged in age from less than one year to more than 75 years. Slightly more than half were women.

These cancer victims lived, and died, in every county in the state. Mrs. Sanders reminds counties that cancer, the uncontrolled growth of body cells, can occur in any living thing, and that it can strike "any one of us" at any time.

Those who wish to mail in their contribution, may do so by sending it to Mrs. A. C. Sanders, Box 467, Murray, Kentucky.

No Official Word
There still was no official word and none was expected until later. But political forecasters were amused at still another sign—a house slipper executed in candy sugar, and a chocolate cigar, both of which adorned Lady Churchill's birthday cake on Friday.

The forecasters deduced that this could only signify approaching leisure for the cigar-smoking prime minister.

Churchill, when he informs the Queen of his decision, is expected to recommend the sabbath 57-year-old Sir Anthony Eden to form a new Conservative government as prime minister.

Then, while Eden prepared for nationwide general elections, Churchill would go to Sicily April 12 for the first holiday he has taken in decades without the weight of political burdens.

Churchill May Announce Farewell Salute Tonight

LONDON (UP) — Sir Winston Churchill, spending what was generally believed to be his last full day as prime minister of Britain, gives his "farewell salute" tonight to the monarchy he has served since Queen Victoria.

The prime minister, Lord Churchill, entertained Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh tonight at a sparkling dinner party at No. 10 Downing Street, with Britain convinced Churchill will resign within 24 hours.

Tuesday night Churchill drives to the crimson and gold vestibule of Buckingham Palace to give his weekly report to the Queen. It is then the doughty old warrior is expected to tell her officially "something the nation has been expecting for weeks."

There still was no official word and none was expected until later. But political forecasters were amused at still another sign—a house slipper executed in candy sugar, and a chocolate cigar, both of which adorned Lady Churchill's birthday cake on Friday.

The A Cappella Choir of Murray State College Will Present a Program at the Thursday Evening Session of the Kentucky Education Association Meeting in Louisville, April 14

The choir will present a thirty minute program beginning at 8 p.m. in the Louisville Memorial Auditorium. The choir will also present a program at the annual Murray State Breakfast, which will be held in the South Room of the Brown Hotel, Friday morning at 8 o'clock.

Choir director Robert Baar has scheduled selections that range from the mid 1600's to the early 20th century. The 39 voice choir is familiar to most of the First District Education Association members, having presented programs at their annual meetings.

The program: "Psalms 100," by Schütz; "Innocents pro Christo," by Marengo; "Cantata of Peace," by Darius Milhaud; and "Hear the Singing," by Jean Berger.

Each year the choir makes a tour of the high schools in the area, served by Murray State College. They have presented programs at Tighman High School in Paducah, Mayfield High School, Owensboro High School, and at the high schools in Cadiz, Fulton, Hopkinsville, Lone Oak, Henderson, Madisonville, and Princeton.

The A Cappella Choir annually presents a program at High School Day held at Murray. The choir's Christmas and Easter programs are a must for the music lovers of the First District and the surrounding states.

Professor Baar received his bachelor of music education, bachelor of music, and master of music from the Chicago Musical College. He also studied at St. Olaf College in Minnesota. During the school year of 1933-34 he headed the Department of Music at Northwestern (Iowa) College. He first came to Murray State College in 1931.

Miss Combs expressed the hope that a fully-financed Foundation Program of Education would do much to provide great incentive for high level teacher preparation, with salaries being more commensurate with the preparation required.

School districts with emergency teachers ranged from none in some districts to 84 in Harlan County and 85 in Floyd County.

Faxon Mothers To Meet Wednesday

The Faxon Mother's Club will meet on April 6 at 1:30 with R. L. Cooper County Sanitarian as the speaker. He will talk on the new polio vaccine which may be given to Calloway School Children.

Mrs. Mason Thomas urges every mother to attend the meeting on Wednesday.

Health Chairmen To Meet

Mrs. Kenneth Ross, Health Chairman of the Calloway County Organization announces the regular meeting April 5 at 2:30 p.m., at the Health Center.

She asks that all Health chairmen be present.

Hazel Alumni Plan Meeting

The eighth annual Hazel High School Alumni Banquet will be held Saturday night, April 9th, at 7:00 o'clock p.m. at Hazel High School.

All former students of Hazel High School are eligible to attend this banquet—and are invited to be present whether they have received an official notice or not. Anyone wishing to attend may make reservations by writing or calling Mrs. Russ Taylor, Secretary, at Hazel, Kentucky. Cost of meal is $1.00.

Last year the Hazel Alumni Association awarded a scholarship to Murray State College to the outstanding graduate of Hazel High School.

Officers of the association this year are Harvey Ellis, president; Charles James, vice-president; and Maureen Taylor, secretary and treasurer. All former Hazel students are urged to attend this alumni meeting.

Flower Show To Be Postponed

The Garden Department of the Murray Woman's Club has announced that the flower show which was to have been held on Thursday April 7 has been postponed indefinitely.

The late freeze and heavy frost killed nearly every flower blooming out of doors, making the postponement of the show necessary.

County Has 5 Emergency Teachers

Frankfort, Ky. — Kentucky's public school system for the current year includes 2,384 emergency or sub-standard teachers — fewer than for any year since 1941 — a study completed today by the Division of Teacher Education has disclosed.

The study, made under direction of Miss Louise Combs, director of the division, showed that despite the fact that 29,868 teachers are now employed — or 1,655 more than a year ago — the number of emergency teachers — those with less than the minimum legal requirements to teach — fell from 2,408 to 2,384 for the year.

That the problem is still serious is illustrated by the fact that 1,903 emergency teachers are included in the 14,197 teachers employed in the emergency systems, while 481 of the 6,671 high school teachers are so designated.

"It is significant to keep in mind that until 1956 only 64 hours of college training are required for regular elementary certificates," Miss Combs said. "Kentucky along with 35 other states has accepted the fact that college graduation is the minimum level for beginning teachers. This standard will apply beginning in September 1956."

Kentucky applied that standard at present, the number of emergency teachers employed would be much larger. Research shows, however, that over a period of years the high standard approach offers a solution to teacher shortage. High standards attract while low standards repel top flight young people."

Miss Combs expressed the hope that a fully-financed Foundation Program of Education would do much to provide great incentive for high level teacher preparation, with salaries being more commensurate with the preparation required.

School districts with emergency teachers ranged from none in some districts to 84 in Harlan County and 85 in Floyd County.

About Forty Children Die In Huge Fire

By WILLIAM ANDERSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

LIEGE, Belgium (UP) — Mothers who waited throughout the night to try to identify children burned to death in a flimsy movie house broke into screams today and fainted when hearses unloaded 22 small white coffins outside a mortuary chapel.

The bodies of those who perished in the fire were so badly charred authorities were not even certain how many died. Police and fire officials said they had recovered fragments of 35 or 39 bodies, most of them children beyond the age of ten.

Sobbing relatives milled outside the chapel but authorities refused to admit them until later today when the charred bodies are placed in the small, white coffins. Identification of most of the victims proved impossible.

Police still guarded the blackened remains of the wooden El Rio Theater where a kerosene heating system exploded Sunday and spread flaming death among 200 persons attending a children's matinee of the French film, "The Adventurer of Seville."

Crowds of parents and relatives pressed against the police cordon, unwilling to believe the tragic news they received from the mortuary and still hoping that further survivors might turn up.

Official Inquiry Launched
Judicial authorities began an official inquiry into the cause of the fire in suburban Solesmes which touched off panic among those watching the film. Most of the children were strangled near the main exit which was jammed by flames.

At least 100 persons were injured, some of them critically.

A police spokesman reported 14 women and at least on man among the dead but said, "We still have unidentified parts of bodies which may or may not belong to victims we have already counted."

The dead were laid out in a community school while the process of identification was carried out.

The explosion sent a stream of flaming kerosene spreading through the building-flimsy wood with a brick facade. The main exit beneath the screen was on one of the first parts of the theater to catch fire.

Firemen said most of the youngsters who died were found crushed and charred in a heap near the exit.

Survivors Describes Panic
One of the survivors, Rene Bouchaux, 30, who was sitting with his wife in the back row, described the blaze:

"Suddenly I saw the screen become red," he said. "There had been a small fire of kerosene hanging around for some time," he said. "The sound track of the film also failed about ten minutes before the fire."

"When the screen caught fire, I pushed my wife through the mob and into the street. Then we realized that Francis, our son, was still inside."

Rocoux pushed his way back in. "When I got back the whole cinema was ablaze," he said. "People were lying on the floor screaming. It was terrible. I looked all around but all I could see was flames."

He returned to tell his wife later and could not be found but "There was Francis standing beside his mother. I just could not help crying."

Water Safety Course To Be Given

An American Red Cross water safety instructor's course will begin tonight at 7:00 o'clock at the Murray State College pool.

Paul Love, American Red Cross safety service representative for the state of Kentucky will be the instructor.

The course will be held all of this week.

Health Chairmen To Meet

Mrs. Kenneth Ross, Health Chairman of the Calloway County Organization announces the regular meeting April 5 at 2:30 p.m., at the Health Center.

She asks that all Health chairmen be present.

"THE FRIENDLY FUNERAL HOME"

May we introduce a gentleman who was born in Olive, Kentucky, over in Marshall County, several years ago. This man attended school in Olive Grade School and Hardin High School and later on moved to Detroit as so many people from this area have done. He married his wife, who is also a native of the Olive community, with him to Detroit.

This man worked eleven years for the Ford Motor Company in Detroit and then with his family, he returned to Murray in 1946. His vocation is service and many people think of him at the first sign of trouble. If you are going to have any type of automobile service done during the balance of this week, drive in and call this man by his name.

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP)—

Sports of all sorts:

Willie Mays of the Giants, who joins the list of baseball authors with a new book due out this month, reports he passed out on one glass of champagne at the 1951 pennant victory party when he was 20 years old. But he was a real grown up '23 when the giants admits he did much better. It took two glasses of the stuff to put him on the deck.

Terry Brennan finally has made good as Notre Dame's football coach. Young Terry opened his second year with a spring practice remark that would do justice to that worthy mourner, Frank Leahy: "Our shortage will not only be in quantity but in quality." All of which means the Irish probably won't win a game — until next September.

Coach Tom Blackburn of Dayton, whose team lost to Duquesne in the National Invitation basketball finals, used a unique method to combat what he regards as the worst hazard of playing in New York City. In order to keep his boys from wearing themselves out in sight-seeing tours "to look at the tall buildings," Blackburn saw to it they were quartered in hotel rooms equipped with television sets.

When Rocky Marciano meets Don Cockell at San Francisco on May 10, he expects to be sharper than at any time since the second bout with Jersey Joe Walcott. He boxed more than usual in the early stages of training so he wouldn't be as ring-rusty as he was against Ezzard Charles.

Enrique Grenados, son of the man who coaches Spain's international swimming team, has enrolled for a special course at Yale — most of which is merely studying the methods of famed swim coach Bob Harbo. Grenados works out with the Yale team to learn American styles and coaching methods so he can report back to pop in time for the next Olympics.

Hank Sauer of the Cubs speaks up for those outfielders who play good ball but make spectacular plays.

Jesse Owens, whose world broad jump record of 26 feet, eight and 1/2 inches just 20 years ago this spring is the oldest on the international books, usually is seen on television at ringside of bouts piped out of Chicago. Jesse gets a front row seat as an employee of the Illinois State Athletic Commission.

Sugar Ray Robertson says he is trying it again on April 14 against Tel Oila at Milwaukee. In three bouts the "on-time" "fing" great showed ringsters almost nothing of his former prowess but he says, "If I haven't got it, I'll quit" after a few more tries. Most everyone right now he doesn't have it any more.

Middleweight Class Has Changes

NEW YORK, AP.—The middleweight division in boxing has come up with the most changes in The Ring magazine's March rankings released today.

Tiberio Mitri of Italy, Willie Troy of Washington, D. C., and Bobby Jones of Oakland, Calif., are missing in this month's top 10 — the "Hector" Contender of Argentina's Eduardo Lamsie, England's Johnny Sullivan and Jean Bobby Dykes of Miami.

Mitri and Troy were dropped due to inactivity while Jones was "demoted" because of his loss to Jimmy Martinez, who was stopped in five rounds Monday by Danny Giovannelli, Las Vegas, and Dykes occupy the last three runs in the order named. The only change in the other seven spots finds Pierre Langlois of France up a notch from eighth.

Gavilan Drops Further

Kid Gavilan, the former welterweight king from Cuba, continued his skid, dropping from fourth to eighth because of two straight losses to Hector Contender of Trinidad and Dykes. The only other change in this division finds Virgil Atkins of St. Louis replacing Wally Thom of England in 10th position.

The heavyweight, light heavyweight, bantamweight and flyweight divisions also have one new face change from the February rankings.

Jimmy Slade of New York, ranked 10th last month, has been dropped in favor of James J. Parker of Paterson, N. J., who is placed eighth with Charley Norcross down a notch to 10th.

Eye Injuries Reported From Atomic Tests

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—The Defense Department has conceded that four of its personnel received eye injuries, two of them possibly permanent, in atomic tests held in Nevada in 1952 and 1953.

The admission came Friday night in the face of previous flat government claims that no participant or observer had been injured during the tests.

The Defense Department disclosure was made after 12 days of prodding by reporters who sought official verification of a story published by the Harrisburg, Pa. Sunday Patriot-News and other newspapers.

Six Injuries Reported

The Patriot-News had said there were six injuries and that its information had been confirmed by two atomic experts and two former Army doctors. It said one officer was blinded in one eye. A similar story in the Newark N.J. Star-Ledger quoted Capt. Donald Kobley, former chief of the eye clinic at Ft. Hood, Tex., as saying "six" soldiers suffered retinal eye burns.

The Defense Department said that in 1952 a military observer received a retinal burn in one eye but "completely recovered."

An eye of a second observer, in 1953, was burned but he "suffered no apparent visual disability" and has been released from active duty the department said.

An officer in 1953 resigned from service after the atomic test. At that time, diagnosis showed choroiditis, or inflamed retina with third degree myopia or spot from diseased condition in the left eye.

Fourth A. Photographer

The fourth injured person was a military photographer. He is still on active duty and has "minor difficulty" with one eye when reading.

The department has no other information that it can make public, a spokesman said. It did not identify the injured men.

In a story dated March 20, the Patriot-News said Rep. James A. Van Zandt, R-Pa., checked the AEC, Air Force and Army, and announced there was "absolutely no foundation" to reports of injuries.

NANCY
Drugged! It was a new and astounding thought. Andrus took it in with him to dinner in the dining room.

Why should anyone have drugged him? So that he couldn't turn up in the morning? Incredible. Drugs were too tricky a medium. You couldn't count on any long range effect.

Halfway through his dinner for which he had no appetite, he became aware that he was under observation. A man at a table 15 feet away was watching him. He was a big man, handsome in a lush sort of way. He had thinning dark hair and features that would have been good except for the darkness of fat. Age around 40. Andrus finished his meal and ordered coffee.

The coffee came, but he didn't drink it. The fellow who had been watching him got up, put on a big man's hair overcoat and went out. Something about his build was familiar. Andrus had seen him recently in a peculiar circumstance; he signed his check hastily, threw down a bill and got up. But by the time he reached the outside door, his quarry had vanished.

Earlier that evening Susan Dwight found out who had written the letter that had frightened Regina. Harry had come up for the express purpose of taking her to a big party at the Rankins. He said, "You promised and we can't disappoint Muriel and Tom; it's their wedding anniversary—and everything's fine here now with Andrus from under. Come on, Sue."

But Susan wouldn't. She said she was too tired. "You go and make my apologies. Give the Rankins my love, and say I'll ring them."

CHAPTER TWENTY
SUSAN DWIGHT engaged to nothing... What did she see in that fellow? Andrus thought. He was pleasant enough and he'd never hurt you with a bad answer, but he was bone lazy.

Andrus forced his attention back to his own situation. He was a little more forward than he had been when he came up here over a week ago. He had been released on a Scotch verdict of not proven, simply because there wasn't enough to hold him on. Mrs. Penn had said he was with Midnight Mike on the night Roger Pelham was killed—but not exactly when. She might never be able to say, Regina believed in him—or did she, completely? Once or twice that afternoon hadn't there been a flicker of doubt in her? "But who, Jim—who could have driven your car that night? I suppose it was someone who had no car and wanted to get somewhere in a hurry and took a short cut through our grounds. But it does seem strange."

Until the man who had killed Pelham and almost killed Mrs. Penn was behind bars he would never be really cleared. Todhunter had tried to persuade him to go back to New York, at which he had merely smiled. He intended to remain here on the spot and pursue his inquiries openly, no matter how those who stepped on or how many people he offended. His vowed intention of getting to the bottom of Roger Pelham's death right act as a spur, and the kill into renewed life, make him betray himself.

Everything else was subservient, including Regina. For the present harrumphing was on the dark side of the moon. Regina had said "nothing," given no slightest indication of how she felt about taking up where they had left off. If his inquest was proved would she still want to marry him? There was certainly no eager mention of it. Then he asked himself whether he had ever been any real eager, less in either of them. But all that could have to wait.

Andrus walked into the inn lobby, an immense room with cattered with sofas and chairs and with two fireplaces. If he had any doubt of how he stood in the eyes of the Hill it was resolved then. He was disliked and feared. There was a cocktail party going on and the place was crowded. People sipping drinks and laughing and talking; as he made his way through the room toward the east end he moved in a small oasis of silence. The Hill had no doubt of guilt, at least where Roger Pelham was concerned.

His room, a big room that took up the whole end of the wing, had three long windows opening directly on the grounds. He made sure the windows were locked, lowered the venetian blinds, went to the suitcase he had sent up from New York, opened it and took out his service revolver and a box of cartridges. Having failed to eliminate him by due process of law, the killer might decide to put a bullet through his head, and it was as well to be prepared.

He was slipping bullets into the chamber when there was a knock on the door. He was a knock on the door. Andrus didn't care who knew he had a gun, the more the merrier. He called, "Enter," and the door opened and Roger Pelham's friend, Dr. Fernandez, walked into the room, accompanied by the head of the Manhattan Homicide squad, Inspector Christopher McKee.

Introductions, handshakes, they all sat down. Andrus was immediately impressed by the tall Scotsman, by his strong face, his quiet manner and his unobtrusive force. It would have been difficult not to be. More than that, he liked him at once; he refused altogether to consider the Inspector's first proposition, which was that he leave Wolf Hill.

McKee continued to survey Andrus pleasantly. He hadn't expected it. He agreed to turn over anything he discovered to Todhunter, who was to remain on the Hill. Eying the gun lying on the bureau, McKee advised against Andrus' carrying it, or even keeping it in his possession. "We're up against a ruthless individual who knows how to twist what's lying around loose to the best advantage. You would be framed with your gun, nicely."

But Andrus wouldn't part with the gun. "I'll keep it safe—and I can assure you I won't use it unless I have to."

After that they talked for some time. McKee's question is ranged far and wide. He asked about Regina Pelham's financial position, specifically. She had a small income from her father's estate, just about enough to live on, and the house—which was more of a liability than anything else. The Peeping Tom in the Pelham grounds on Sunday night was touched on, it would be interesting to know who he was and why he was there... and then there was Mrs. Frederick Pelham and her sending of the snapshot to the Yonkers Messenger.

McKee said, "I don't think Edith Pelham likes you very much, Mr. Andrus, or her husband either." In his opinion the Frederick Pelham's opinion of Andrus in his character of prospective bridegroom, simply and solely that, yet it was hard to see as things stood why they were so averse to Regina's remarriage. If Regina were a wealthy woman it might be understandable—Frederick was Regina's only brother and she was very fond of him. But she wasn't a wealthy woman. As for Edith's search of Mrs. Casserly's room it might or might not be germane. According to Todhunter, the nurse was an uneasy woman.

Jackson-Miller Vows Are Solemnized In Beautiful Ceremony At Kirbyton Church

Mrs. Robert Irvin Miller

The wedding of Miss Ruth Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Jackson of Kirbyton, and Mr. Robert Irvin Miller, son of Mrs. Lois Miller of Murray and the late Tazwell Miller, was solemnized at the Kirbyton Baptist Church on Friday, March 18.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Wilbur Johnson at half after six o'clock in the evening.

The vows were pledged before a white wrought-iron arch entwined with plumose and flanked by seven-branched candelabra in which white tapers were burning. Palms and Oregon ferns formed the background, focal point of which was a sunburst arrangement of white gladioli and fern. Similar arrangements of the flowers were on either side.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mr. Harry Hampshire of Murray, vocalist, and Mrs. Hampshire, pianist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length gown of white tulle over taffeta. The groom wore a tuxedo with a stand-up collar and fitted sleeves finished with flounces at the wrist. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a lace cape, and she carried a bouquet of tube roses encircling a white orchid.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Robert Sigler of Oak Ridge, Tenn., was the matron of honor. The bridesmaids were sisters-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Martin Jackson of Kirbyton and Mrs. Morris Jackson of Murray.

The attendant's gowns, fashioned of faille taffeta in three tones of blue, were made with scoop necklines and ballerina length skirts, complemented by matching gloves and bandeaux. They carried bouquets of blue carnations tied with blue satin streamers in which carnations were caught in lovers' knots. The honor attendant's gown was distinguished by lace at the neckline.

Miss Ruth Ann Jackson of Kirbyton, the bride's niece, was the flower girl. She was attired in a floor length dress of white embroidered organza over taffeta with a matching headpiece and carried a nosegay of blue carnations.

Mr. Buel Jetton of Murray, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man. The ushers were Messrs. Preston Holland, Gillard Ross, and Wesley P. Russell, all of Murray.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue suit with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses. The mother of the bridegroom was attired in navy blue crepe with which she wore navy blue accessories and a corsage of red roses.

New Dog Star Appears On Screen

By ALINE MOSBY

UNITED PRESS Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, April 1 (UP)—MGM has a new, blond star whose movie debut today featured a glamorous bubble bath scene and a lavish wardrobe of satins, sequins and sweaters.

This new actor even may launch a new fashion for dogs. He is a white bull terrier that MGM expects will follow Grace Kelly in a blaze of stardom on the screen.

The four-footed actor, Cadence Glacier, portrays a canine named Wildlife in "Bar Sinister," the Richard Harding Davis classic about a bovery fighting mutt who rose to become champion of the dog show world.

As Wildlife is a show dog in the film, he has a wardrobe that will cause poodles from Park Avenue to Beverly Hills to quiver with envy. MGM fashion designers took time out from Lana Turner's wardrobe to sketch beautiful designs for the pooch.

Wildlife modeling his new clothes on his movie set, took it all with dignity. He has a pink velvet jacket with a be-sequined lace neck ruff, a purple quilted satin jacket, a red turtle-neck sweater and a red satin blanket spinkled with gold braid and pearls.

For casual moments, the dog wears a blue-and-white checked wool jacket with a blue velvet collar, and not even Rin-Tin-Tin can top that. Wildlife also sports various fancy collars, including a two-inch-wide job of solid rhinestones.

Wildfire, or, rather, Sadence Glacier, was brought to MGM for the starring role by trainer Bill Rogers who also trains Bullet, the German Shepherd, for the Roy Rogers TV series.

"Wildfire" has to portray the widest range of attitudes ever required for a movie dog - much more than Lassie," says Koehler.

"He has tender scenes with Edmund Gwenn, Dean Jagger and Janna Lewis. He must lie motionless as if near death. He must greet his mother whom he discovers in the dog catcher's wagon. He has three pit fights and is covered with blood make-up. He herds geese in a lake and has milk squirted in his mouth from a cow. Bull terriers are not popular because people think they're funny looking, but they have great character."

Reception

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Jackson were hosts at a reception at the Kirbyton Community Center. Assisting in serving were Miss Louise Martin, Miss Frances Martin, and Miss Joyce Martin, all of Kirbyton, and Mrs. Dick Castleman of Mayfield, cousins of the bride; Miss Nancy Jetton and Miss Janet Jetton of Murray, nieces of the bridegroom. Mrs. Buel Jetton and Mrs. Jackson were in charge of the bride's book.

The couple left later in the evening for a wedding trip with the bride traveling in a gray flannel suit with black and white accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller are at home at the Fair Oaks Apartments in Paducah.

Cadence Glacier has helped in these acting chores from his double, a male impersonator called Missy. Not to disillusion the kiddies, but there are five Lassies on that TV show. The dog star also will narrate the film and have lines. He will be aided in this by Humphrey Bogart, James Cagney or some other actor who sounds like a bull terrier looks.

Wildfire's bathtub scene was memorable among film baths - he licked the bubbles off his nose.

Vaccine Is Believed To Be Effective

NEW YORK (UP)—The New York World-Telegram and Sun said today that the five major pharmaceutical houses making the Salk polio vaccine have "received assurances that the vaccine is effective against paralytic polio."

The newspaper said Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., director of the University of Michigan polio center which is evaluating the results of last spring's vaccine tests, told the World-Telegram and Sun on the telephone today that pharmaceutical houses have received some assurances, on the basis of which they proceeded to manufacture the vaccine.

The Scripps-Howard newspaper reported Wednesday in a copyrighted story that not one case of polio had appeared among the 440,000 children who received shots of the vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of the University of Pittsburgh.

The newspaper quoted "an unimpeachable medical source." Spokesmen for Francis and for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which sponsored the tests, denied that anyone was in possession of the information which such a statement could be based. Francis said his report on the tests, which will be made public on April 12, had not yet been written. He is scheduled to hold a press conference at 2 p.m. Saturday, to provide background information on the evaluation announcement.

Basil O'Connor, president of the national foundation, said "neither the national foundation nor anyone else has received any information from Dr. Francis."

Francis had said a few days earlier that even he did not yet know what the tests showed.

Reports from several sections of the country told of a handful of children who, authorities said, had contracted polio after receiving the Salk vaccine.
